WHO IS IT FOR?

Our breakfast briefing is designed for anyone responsible for Health and Safety or for shaping a positive safety culture in their organisation. It offers a practical, forward-looking space to explore how psychological safety directly influences the way people raise concerns, share ideas, and act on potential risks.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This April, we'll focus on two essential areas: understanding why psychological safety matters in H&S, and learning simple, effective techniques to encourage participation and speaking up. Through interactive discussions, real-world examples and guided activities, participants will gain clear, actionable tools they can apply immediately in their day-to-day roles.

Led by our specialist trainer, Tom Cleary, the session will blend expert insight with practical applications to ensure attendees leave more confident, informed, and equipped to support safer conversations at work

SAFETY INSPECTIONS

An in-depth inspection of specific activities, equipment or areas and defining the risks and measures required to raise levels of health and safety practice.

RISK ASSESSMENTS (E.G. FIRE OR COSHH)

A new risk assessment or review of existing assessment results to ensure they remain compliant and relevant to the activities being conducted.

SAFE SYSTEMS OF WORK, POLICY AND PROCEDURES

A review to develop your management systems, raise standards and support your internal and external strategies, (e.g. achieving ISO 45001 or ISO 14001 certification.)

INDUCTION, TOOLBOX TALKS AND BRIEFINGS

Delivery of training and updates to new or existing employees to educate and inform as to health, safety and environmental best practices.
